FORTY-FIVE HUNDRED CASES
DISPOSED OF IN FOUR YEARS OF FAYETTE CRIMINAL COURT

Record of District Attorney
William A. Miller Surpassed by None.

LIQUOR FINES $150,000

Prosecutor Makes Name by Securing
25 Convictions in 27 Months
Cases During Closing Two Years
December Term Opens On Monday.

The opening Monday, next, of the December term of criminal court, which will last three weeks, will be the closing one for the present administration. Two hundred thirty cases are listed for the three weeks. Included are 90 liquor prosecutions, 20 violations of the motor laws and three murders, among them the case of Jacob K. Fols of Dunbar who shot Benjamin E. Yonk in Connellsville. This case is scheduled for the opening of the final week.

The term of District Attorney William Augustus Miller in office has been the busiest on record in Fayette county. During the four years 1,500 cases were handled of which 1,100 were of liquor statute violations. During this period the county collected $150,000 in fines from liquor defendants.

There were 50 homicides disposed of. First degree convictions were secured in six cases, second degree in 20, manslaughter in 15, while in 13 cases the prisoners were acquitted. A remarkable record was made during the second two years of Mr. Miller's incumbency. In 27 homicides cases brought before the court there were 25 convictions. All these were handled personally by the district attorney, save the most unimportant ones. This record is looked upon as one not surpassed anywhere in the state or in nearby states.

Mr. Miller's term of office was marked by unusual events in affairs of the county. Included were the strike and the advent of prohibition which was followed by persistent activities of moonshiners and bootleggers. The Perryopolis-Fayette City region drug cases bobbed up during his term.

In the beginning Mr. Miller's assistants were Harry Byrne and Nicholas W. Rosenberg. Mr. Byrne resigned after two years and Davis W. Henderson succeeded him.

John DeLorens of Vanderbilt entered a plea this morning to charges of violating the liquor laws and gambling. The case had been hanging over for some time. DeLorens operated a store at Vanderbilt. On the liquor charge he was fined $250 and costs with the provision that a jail sentence of four months would be remitted if fine and costs are paid within 60 days. Costs were assessed on the gambling charge. He was alleged to have operated punch boards.

Westmoreland Civil Court Opens Monday

GREENSBURG, Dec. 1.—The November term of civil court will open Monday with 44 cases listed for the first week. The same number of cases are listed for the second week, beginning December 10. Cases are listed for the first three days in the week only.

Following civil court comes argument court listed for December 17 while on December 18 equity court will be held. Final sessions for this year will be held December 24 when surty and detention court will be held. The November term, however, will have more sessions. On January 25 another session of surty and detention court is listed while on February 1, naturalization court will be held.

The February term of criminal court probably will open the fourth of that month.

SINGLE SERVICE POPULAR

Assurance Given It Will Be Maintained at Mount Pleasant Church.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 1.—The combined Bible school and morning worship plan of service at the Baptist Church was such a success last Sunday that there seems to be no doubt it will be continued as a permanent arrangement. The fore part of the service was given over to worship and the sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Erbe, the last half hour to the Sunday school lesson.

Tomorrow the pastor will exchange pulpits with Rev. Paul J. Smith of Liberty a former pastor here.

Grandstand Blown Down.

The grandstand and fence at Elks Park, Uniontown, erected last summer for baseball games, was blown down by the heavy wind Thursday night. The structure fell with a crash that was heard for a radius of 100 yards around. It is estimated the damage is between $3,000 and $5,000.

Errors in Count
Charged of Vote
At Vanderbilt

The Vanderbilt ballot box is to be opened in court in Uniontown December 15 to determine whether C. B. Arison was elected justice of the peace or not. The returns showed W. J. Reed, running on Republican, Democrat and Socialist tickets, and R. E. McLaughlin, Democrat, the winners, each having 208 votes to 205 cast for Arison, who was a candidate on the Republican and Prohibition tickets.

Mr. Arison, in his petition for a recount, contends he received 210 votes. He charges that in making the count the names of candidates were read in such low voices that the tally clerks could not at all times hear and that errors resulted. The court issued rules on Reed and McLaughlin.

Part of Vesuvius Falls Into Crater

NAPLES, Dec. 1.—Mount Vesuvius became suddenly active during the night. The sky reflected a tremendous glare from the volcano's crater, while an edge of the cone apparently toppled into the interior.

Prof. Mallandro, director of the observatory, thinks this is not alarming. An earthquake lasting three seconds was reported at Caprano where inhabitants fled to the streets. No damage was done.

Lock Battered Off, Automobile Stolen

A Ford touring car, the property of the Connellsville Construction Company, was stolen last night from the company garage in the north end. The lock on the door was battered off.

The car was equipped with side curtains and shock absorbers. It is believed the gas tank was well filled when the car was left at the garage. A search has been instituted for it.

N.Y. CITY.

Calvin Coolidge.

Sunday, December 2, the whole civilized world is asked to observe the first "International Golden Rule Day," in the interest of Near East Relief.

From the number of pledges already received it is estimated that at least a million Americans will celebrate Golden Rule Day, not by feasting, but by fasting or otherwise practicing some act of self denial in order that others may not starve. The most popular method appears to be that of foregoing the usual Sunday dinner and eating instead a meal similar to that given every day to the Near East Relief orphans and contributing the difference in cost to the relief work. In addition to the widespread observance of the day in this country, people in 14 European and Asiatic countries will observe the day in the same way, making their contributions through their own national relief agencies.

Among the well-known Americans who have pledged themselves to eat a "Golden Rule" dinner are President Calvin Coolidge, former President Woodrow Wilson, Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, Senator King of Utah, former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, Henry Morgenthau, and many others. Foreign nations are represented on the Golden Rule roster by such names as M. Georges Clemenceau of France, Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of England's famous "Little Englander," the king and queen of Greece, Prince Carl of Sweden, Dr. Fridtjof Nansen of Norway and a host of others.

Mayor Mitchell has issued a proclamation in which he asks that Golden Rule Day be observed in Connellsville.

Thousand Fans
See Girl Gridders
Play 12-12 Tie

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTSBURGH, Dec. 1.—Defying the elements and urged on by a thousand excited fans, girls of the sophomore and freshman classes of the high school battled to a 12-12 tie in a football game at Loucks Park yesterday afternoon. Next Friday afternoon, at the same place, starting about 3:15 o'clock the battle will be resumed.

Mud, mud, nothing else but mud, it seemed there was in the ball park, and the players presented a sight when the final whistle blew, but what did they care? They and the members of the grade team which the week before lost to the freshmen, had started something in Western Pennsylvania football annals—tumultuous gridiron sport.

Harold Small assumed the role of referee. Earl Gove was umpire and Mr. Whaley of Emerson, head line-man.

On the freshman team were Huggs, Hartman, Dale, McDowell, Nowcomer, S. Glasgow, Poole, M. Glasgow, E. Small, Whitman and V. Small. The sophomore team was made up of R. Nelson, V. Nelson, D. Chambers, Gove, Jackson, V. Chambers, Newbrough, A. Whitman, Jenkins, Elmer and Laughrey.

REPLY IS HELD SECRET

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The United States government has been officially advised by Colonel James A. Logan, unofficial American representative on the Reparations Commission, that the Allies desire American participation in an investigation of Germany's financial condition, it was stated at the State Department today.

The State Department has replied to this communication from Logan. It was admitted, but officials refuse absolutely to divulge the contents of the exchange of communications. The assumption is, however, that the reply to Logan outlines the American attitude towards this new development of the reparations situation.

Germany Besiege
U. S. Consulate

By United Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 1.—Hundreds of Germans today besieged the American consulate begging visas for passports enabling them to sail for the United States.

The rush followed notification by the large steamship lines that no more passengers will be booked owing to the American immigration quota system. Many of the cases presented were pitiful in the extreme. Numbers applying for visas had sold their homes on the assumption they could go to America and earn their livelihood.

Meyersdale Man Stricken.

MEYERSDALE, Dec. 1.—George Blake was taken seriously ill Friday morning and after a consultation of physicians was taken to the Western Maryland Hospital at Cumberland. Republicans
Organize; Lodge
Floor Leader

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Senate regular Republicans proceeded with their organization unmolested in secret caucus today and unanimously chose all their candidates for the big jobs in the upper house of Congress. Progressives changed their minds at the last moment and boycotted the meeting.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was re-elected Republican floor leader, Senator Curtis, Republican whip, and Senator Wadsworth secretary of the majority caucus.

Lodge was authorized to appoint a committee on committees, a committee on patronage and a committee on the order of business. The sergeant at arms and other clerical offices of the majority remain the same.

No mention was made in the caucus of the peculiar situation resulting from the decision of Senator Cummins of Iowa to retain the presidency of the Senate and the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Among the Progressives who absented themselves from the caucus were Senators Borah, Brookhouser, Cushman,razier, Ladd, LaFollette, Norbeck and Norris. Absentees who have not yet arrived at the Capitol include Senators Colt, McLean, Stanford and Sterling.

Lodge declared he would appoint the specified committees within a few days. Senator Brandegee of Connecticut probably will retain his post as chairman on the committee on committees, Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin as chairman of the committee on patronage and Senators Lodge and Curtis as chairman and vice-chairman of the steering committee.

William Johnson of California, who recently announced his candidacy for President was present but made no objection to the procedure. Republican leaders were enthusiastic over the unanimity of opinion and the amity with which their organization functioned.

Major Mitchell has issued a proclamation in which he asks that Golden Rule Day be observed in Connellsville.

75 AUTOMOBILES ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE
IN SOMERSET GARAGE

By United Press.

SOMERSET, Dec. 1.—Seventy-five automobiles were consumed by fire which destroyed the Somerset Motor Sales Company plant in West Church street at an early hour today, with a loss of $75,000.

Three residences adjoining the motor company's building were damaged.

In this connection, many of his friends hope he will make it blunt, without use of excessive words, and specific to the point of plainness, so that what he meant to say cannot be misconstrued, either by the opposite party or by the friends of other ambitious Republican aspirants to the nomination.

The chaos were gathering today, with many new faces seen in the historic halls of the Capitol. The last congressional election was an upset in more than one way. "Uncle Joe" Cannon is gone—gone to watch in philosophical calm while the rest of "the boys" get all excited over what to "Uncle Joe" is just another Congress. Other faces that always graced the informal assemblages preceding the convening of a new Congress are gone too. Death has taken some of them, and political fortune others.

The new ones were coming in by every train today, some of them self-conscious, shuffling down, a little, the air of importance with which they departed from their homes, when they arrived here to find that they were just so many pawns in a great big pool.

The greatest liberality body in the world, no-called, is about to assemble. It looks a good deal like a town meeting, and, if it lives up to past performances, it will act a good deal like one.

The gavel will fall at noon Monday in House and Senate. Prayer will ascend—prayer that must be kept to a brief minute or two, and then the 68th Congress will be off.

68TH CONGRESS WILL FACE TROUBLE FROM START OF SESSION

Is Not Likely to Get Down to Business Until After New Year Begins.

HEAR MESSAGE TUESDAY

Success or Failure With Legislative Body Will Have Great Bearing on Coolidge's Re-election for Another Term in Presidential Chair.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—The 68th Congress will meet Monday at noon. It is a Congress that faces trouble right from the start. There are a number of reasons for this. They include:

1. It is a "presidential year" Congress. The session that opens Monday will not really get down to business until after New Year. Politics will be in the air every minute.

2. It is controlled potentially at least by a new group of progressives, headed by LaFollette, who have it in their power to make inroads difficult for both the major party groups, particularly for the administration Republicans.

3. It has more work to do—as is usual with Congress—than it can do between now and next June, when the political conventions will call a halt on legislative activities.

In a peculiar fashion, this new Congress is important to the President of the United States. He faces his big test. It is generally recognized that upon Mr. Coolidge's success or failure with Congress will depend his nomination in the coming Republican national convention.

The first test, will come with his message, which it is expected, he will deliver in person Tuesday, before a joint session of the House and Senate. That message will be listened to with keenest attention and deep respect, for, whatever men may think of him as a politician, as a man they have much respect for Mr. Coolidge.

His message will be taken apart in the most minute fashion, and will be analyzed and interpreted in every conceivable way, unless it is so plain and forthright that there is only one interpretation to be put upon it.

In this connection, many of his friends hope he will make it blunt, without use of excessive words, and specific to the point of plainness, so that what he meant to say cannot be misconstrued, either by the opposite party or by the friends of other ambitious Republican aspirants to the nomination.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Following out his program of smoothing various state situations, President Coolidge today took up Missouri. He received at the White House J. La Buhler, Republican national committeeman from Missouri, Representative Dyer, Representative Faust and former Representative Bingham.

Missouri Roughnecks are divided into a number of factions but Mr. Coolidge has been advised that it is possible to bring about party harmony in support of his candidacy. This border state is always the scene of a terrific campaign battle and is considered by his political advisors a fruitful field for the President's personal "harmonizing effort."

The Paramount

VAN FROM NEW YORK on view today at this theatre is a powerful picture with Fred C. Church in the stellar role, provides splendid entertainment today at this theatre. It has been a long time since an audience showed so much enthusiasm over a picture as there was last night over "Man from New York". It told the attention of the audience spellbound, concentrated, focused upon the screen until the last close up was enacted. The story opens in New York and then takes you to Mustang Montana, a little town with about one hundred people, and one bad man Red Dawson, who is secretly at the head of a gang of rustlers. Red is foreman of "Dad" Crawford's ranch and knowing that "Dad's" daughter would some day inherit this vast property decided she belonged to him and was to the man that dared interfere.

Monday and Tuesday the Wife's Husband will be shown

The Soisson

"THE PRINTER'S DEVIL" the leading attraction today at this theatre presents Wesley Barry in the title role. It is the story of the adventures that befall a young printer's devil in a small country town where he has to chase and hold up a pair of hold-up men help his boss in a romance, and run away from a girl of his age who has a crush on him. Wesley Barry's supporting cast consists of the following players: Katherine McGuire, Louis King, George Pearce, Ray Cannon, Mary Hatter and Harry Rottenberg.

Six Stock Salesmen to Avoid
The Northwestern Banker (Des Moines) puts a deal of good advice into small compass when it tells its readers that the six stock salesmen for the investor to avoid are:

The man who tells you how stockholders in similar concerns became rich over night.
The man who wants to help you in "keeping the contract away from Wall Street."

The man who talks about the "transferability" of stock.

The man who says that the stock will later be listed on the exchange.

The man who wants you to buy because "the price is surely going up."

The man whose chief selling points are letters of recommendation from "leading citizens."

Sentimental Offer.

"You might ask Mary to get these mugs off my coat with a little petrol."

"Oh, George! I can't. Since the chauffeur filled her she can't stand the smell of it!"—Pears' Soap Ad (London).

Is Civilization Doomed?

There is special significance in the troublous days through which the world has passed since 1914.

Out of these events will come greater developments, involving all nations and peoples.

The Bible accurately foretold present conditions.

Its prophecies regarding the future will be fulfilled with equal exactness.

The outstanding hope held forth in the Scriptures is the hope of eternal life, and the realization of this hope is now at hand.

It will be accompanied by all that the heart has longed for—health, peace, and happiness. God's purpose in giving man a revelation of His Plan was that mankind should use it, understand it, and appreciate the principles it sets forth. An understanding of the Bible broadens one's view and inspires cheerfulness and optimism. Prophets of old have described with glowing tongue the glories of the bright day that is now dawning.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Coughs and chesty colds.

There is a home-made syrup which will loosen a stubborn cough. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its soothing influence, chesty colds, sore throats, phlegm, hoarseness, coughing, croup, whooping cough, and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat glands, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 cups of water in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept any cheap imitations. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

62ND CONGRESS WILL FACE TROUBLE FROM START OF SESSION

one of those authorized under the law increasing the federal judiciary. This act has held the appointment, although the law has been in effect more than a year. President Coolidge was urged today to settle this matter by sending to the Senate the nomination of a judge early in the session.

The question of a Republican National Committee also requires settlement. Babler, now national committeeman, is slated for retirement. He has indicated his willingness to retire voluntarily providing agreement can be reached as to his successor, without causing a squabble in the party. Mr. Coolidge may be of assistance here also.

Governor Arthur Hyde recently reported to the President that Missouri was for him. Hyde is one of the bitterest opponents of the Harding World Court plan. He said some months ago that virtually all Missouri Republicans are likewise against it. Mr. Coolidge has not made known his position on the World Court but if Governor Hyde was right in his appraisal of Missouri's sentiment on the court, and if Mr. Coolidge, following out his pledge to support the policy of President Harding should declare for the court it is evident that the Coolidge candidacy will require some strengthening in Missouri.

Utility and Style in Sports Clothes

Tweeds, Twilla, Corduroys, Homespuns, New Weaves Are Used.

Some of the most charming things now offered by the couturiers and shops are designed for sports, for week-end, entertaining and general country wear. Frocks and wraps, notes a fashion authority in the New York Times, are made with both utility and style considered, and the chicness of sports clothes has influenced sharply the styles in all street costumes. For all dress of this character are shown a great variety of materials: tweeds and twilla, homespun, corduroys and a number of new weaves. It is distinctly a homespun season. The Rodier fabrics are having a great vogue, and are most attractive in plaids, broken stripes and mixtures for suits and coats. Saleswomen talk intelligently and eagerly of the "pile fabrics," the "Bewitched weaves," the "Bobby tweeds" or "swandowns" (not the fluffy white stuff that retained mother's party frock when she was a little girl, but warm, woolly goods for suits and wraps). And of "flamingo," a material not necessarily red, nor a species of bird, of "geonax," "velours," "lustrous and arsons—the latter for more elaborate use.

HENRY

BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

"How did you find out about it?" he asked after a moment of unhappy meditation. "Did they talk to you about it?" "They don't know," she said. "No, not yet. He doesn't get drunk, Henry. You wouldn't know, unless you'd always known him, that there was anything wrong. He just drinks. He's ashamed about it. But he needs it. After he's been around with you a while he makes an excuse for going away by himself to get it, because he can't stand it any longer without it. It just happened that I found it out, and when I did it made me sick. No, I didn't say anything to him about it. What would be the use? It's been going on a long while, I guess. Since before he went North this spring."

Henry remembered the drink he'd seen Joe take after the April meeting. "Something ought to be done about it," he said. "It's ghastly. It's really as bad as it seemed to you."

"It is," she asserted. "I am not mistaken about that. But he's the only person who can do anything about it. When he gets around to it, I suppose he will. When he's got over the thing that drives him to it. It is ghastly, of course, but I don't believe anything like that will ever get Joe permanently."

These revelations were so appalling to Henry that he quite forgot what Jennie's original errand to the North had been, along with the apprehensions which had caused her to undertake it. Not so, Jennie, however. She came back to fix.

"They aren't as happy up there as they were when Joe was organizing those subsidiaries," she told Henry. "They're furious over the way he's gone down. They think it's all the doing of the speculators. They're worried over tight money and the way the banks are shutting down on new credits. They think that's part of a conspiracy, too. You see, practically all those little flax companies borrowed the money that they bought the straw with. It was easy enough to get then. But now the local banks are wanting their money paid up, and that means that the subsidiaries won't be able to give us any time at all. We're all right for a while, of course, but this is going to run into millions, Henry. And the stuff we're going to buy, until we've established a market for it, isn't anything the banks will take for collateral, either."

A prediction of John Williamson's stabbed through Henry's memory like a needle. Sooner or later, this man Greer will bite off more than he can chew. Had he already done it? Henry wondered. And then Jennie started him by mentioning John, her son. She had suggested that Henry go and talk to him.

Henry didn't much want to do this. He'd been avoiding John of late on instinct rather than from any formal reason, but this wasn't a fact he cared to confess to Jennie, so he said he would go. He telephoned him that same afternoon, and John invited him to lunch at the Union League the next day—to Henry's relief at getting out of a visit to John's office.

Henry talked with John about it who proved, in the upshot, rather reassuring than otherwise. He seemed to think it natural enough that their progress had been slow with the big jobs and that nothing much would be gained by trying to hurry them. If Greer was coming back in a fortnight or so he could run down to New York and very likely close up everything in a week. Those things usually happened all at once.

They talked through the meal to this comfortable vein, and then when they began to smoke John leaned back in his chair and asked Henry where he'd been all this while. "You'll have to come around pretty soon if you're going to see Dorothy before she goes away. She's going abroad for the winter, to a school in Florence. Violet's got it figured out that she's too young to come out yet, and says she doesn't want her hanging around all the year at a home end. It sounds reasonable enough when she talks about it, but hang it, I was hoping for a chance to get acquainted with the child myself. After she starts going out to dinners and dances on her own every night, I won't have a lookin' October first she goes."

Henry inquired if Violet were going over with her.

"No," John said. "Some girl's mother is to take the girl to them. I don't know what Violet is planning to do. She's been so busy lately getting Dolio packed off that I don't believe she's had time to think."

Between Dorothy's sailing date and Joe's for his return to Chicago there was a direct relation. Back in August he had received this letter from Violet:

"You came to Chicago before that, we'd be seeing each other—and I'd hate it so I'm hoping you will come—then I wonder if that seems idiotic to you."

It did not seem idiotic to Joe. It seemed sensitive, high-minded, thoughtful. It added a glamorous brush stroke or two to the romantic portrait of Violet his fancy had been so industriously painting. Also it fed his hopes. He read into its broken sentences admissions which fell but little short of promises.

Within a week of Jennie's return to Chicago, Joe conceived an attractive project. He'd go straight to New York from here by way of the "Soo" and close his contracts for the year's output of raw linen before he came back. October first. It would be fun to see their faces. Jennie's and Henry's long and solemn enough when he came in, change when he tossed down those papers on his desk before their eyes. That would show them whether he was the old Joe or not!

"Sooner or Later Greer Will Bite Off More Than He Can Chew," John Had Predicted.

The other not quite acknowledged half of the picture was an accidental meeting with Violet after Dorothy's boat had sailed. She had let him know what beat it was. It would be easy enough to manage since he knew the hotel the Williamson's were addicted to in New York they'd both talked about it. He wouldn't go near her; indeed he'd take pains to avoid a chance meeting until the child was out of the way, but the possibilities offered by the subsequent handful of hours were breath-taking, especially if by that time he had his signed contracts in his pocket.

He felt no serious doubt of his success to this. But from the start, on Monday morning, he met unforeseen difficulties. He found plenty of people who were glad to talk with him, but these were the hivelings, experts, and such. The big people, to a baffling degree, were inaccessible. They were like Williamson, only worse. Before the week was over he was wishing he had John there as an ally.

He spent Saturday morning alone in his room. His week's campaign had ended nowhere on Friday, when everybody who could be any good to him disappeared, from the haunts of trade at any rate, for the week-end. It had got him nowhere. But—hadn't it? No nearer his goal, certainly. Yet he could not quite ignore an impression he had caught from the last man he had talked to. This man, pleasant enough and not too obviously in a

Complete Report of Red Cross as Prepared by Secretary W. P. Schenck

Following is the complete report of W. P. Schenck, executive secretary of the Fayette County Chapter of the American Red Cross, submitted to the board of directors at the annual meeting held at chapter headquarters in Uniontown, Wednesday, November 28:

The past year has been filled with splendid accomplishments by the Fayette County Chapter. We, who are in close and continual touch with the work, believe that more real service has been rendered during past year than any previous year since the close of the war. In addition to our regular services we had to deal with several difficult problems, such as the coal strike and the Japanese disaster. I want to touch briefly on the various phases of our work and will take it up according to bureaus and departments.

In our service to ex-service men we handled a total of 608 cases during the course of the year. When it is realized that the majority of these cases mean many interviews, visits, letters written, affidavits prepared, phone calls and other services that takes of the time of our workers, it is easy to imagine that our home service bureau has been kept quite busy with this branch of work. Of the total cases handled, 286 were classified as compensation claims; in other words, ex-service men entitled to some form of government compensation by reason of disabilities received while in the service. One hundred and three were cases demanding hospital care and medical treatment and 115 vocational training. All such cases demand a great amount of time before they are settled and the ex-service men's problems solved. It is in such cases that the expert and trained service of workers, such as our chapter is fortunate in having, is needed.

In our service to civilian families during the past year we handled a total of 728 cases, representing service to 1,197 individuals; 324 were new cases during the year. This branch of service is growing rapidly and could be made sufficiently large to employ the full time of our workers if the chapter was financially able to handle it. As an example of what has been done through civilian home service during the past year, 8,462 quarts of milk were furnished to undernourished children and tubercular patients and 146 cases were referred to institutions or hospitals for special treatment and care.

I will give just one or two examples of cases handled by the chapter recently. A case was referred to us of a young foreign woman with small child. Her husband fell within the bad grasp of the law and was sentenced to a year in the workhouse. He left his family without means of support. The wife had no relatives in his country, spoke very little English and was very much distressed when she came to the Red Cross. She did not know how she was going to maintain herself and small child. The worker handling the case found she had had special training which would fit her for a good position. Through cooperation with several Pittsburgh agencies she was secured a position in a Day Nursery in Pittsburgh. Our nurse took her there and got her established in the work. She was permitted to keep her child with her and is making sufficient salary to live comfortably with her child until her husband is released. Another case, two girls in Fayette county about 13 years of age ran away from home and went to a distant city. This part of the girls' immediate communication with the Red Cross and we in turn got in touch with the Travelers' Aid in the city where they had gone, as we are the Fayette county representative for this organization. The girls were met at the train on their arrival. They were turned over to the Women's Protective Organization. This organization sent them to the Y. W. C. A. A representative of the Travelers' Protective Organization returned the girls to Fayette county where they are again turned over to the Red Cross and by them sent home to their parents.

Just one more case. A mother comes into the office whose son was in the service and by reason of disability received is now confined in a government hospital. The mother was partly dependent on this son for support and it was impossible for her to receive compensation from the government without the appointment of a guardian. The chapter had a guardian appointed and secured for this young man's estate accumulated compensation amounting to over $10,000. The chapter also had an order of court made permitting the guardian to turn over a monthly allowance for the mother's maintenance and support. This class of case is more or less common with the chapter. Financial relief to the amount of $9,715.22 was given to ex-service men and civilian families during the past year. Our records show that on October 1, 1923, our Home Service Bureau had a total of 713 active cases to deal with.

Our two public health nurses have rendered a splendid service during the past year. By reason of our limited nursing we are compelled to limit our nursing activities to certain restricted areas and cannot cover the whole chapter territory as we do through our home service bureau. There were 2,460 nursing visits made during the year, 13,250 miles traveled in carrying on this work of this department. 29 operative cases taken to hospitals and in addition classes in home hygiene and care of the sick, held, first aid and health activities carried on, hundreds of school children measured and weighed and special service visits made.

Under our nursing and home service bureau comes our department of health centers and clinics. During the past year 105 clinics were held. Five hundred and ten children were examined at our several health centers. Through our state medical agency clinic 53 cases of mental defectives were examined. This mental clinic is conducted by Dr. C. R. McKinnis of the State Department of Health. This clinic is held at chapter headquarters once a month. It was organized by our chapter during the past year. Through our several health centers and clinics 78 cases have been referred to family physicians for treatment and care, and 16 cases referred to state and private institutions. Expenditures for our home service bureau during the past year including salaries and relief given totaled $14,906.73. Expenditures for public health nursing service and health centers totaled $4,327.72. This includes salaries of our two nurses. Our bureau of first aid has not been as active during the past year as we had hoped and would like it to be but this is caused by lack of time to develop the service rather than by reason of not having a field for the work. However, 121 men throughout the county were given instructions in first aid during the year. First aid circulars were issued to manufacturing plants. The first aid car of the national organization was brought to Fayette county and a first aid station maintained at the Dawson fair. We hope the coming year will be a more active one in first aid and first aid and there is every indication that it will be.

The past year shows a larger enrollment in our Junior Red Cross than any year since the close of the war. One hundred and 43 schools representing a Junior enrollment of 17,441 are shown on our records. Over 500 copies of the Junior Red Cross News are received in our county schools each month and through this magazine teachers and many help for their regular school work and it teaches splendid lessons of service. Traveling libraries were furnished, funds raised for Near East Relief and more schools are showing a real interest in the Junior Red Cross than in any years since the war. This branch of the Red Cross now has a real program and it furnishes a real opportunity for service. We hope it can be further developed and become a still more useful part of our chapter organization. We want to be able to carry into every school room in Fayette county the motto of the Junior organization "Better Citizenship Through Service."

In our administration department comes the general management of chapter affairs, purchasing of supplies, keeping of books and records, issuing of circulars and reports, handling of chapter correspondence, conduct of Roll Calls, productive work, conduct of special campaigns, such as Japanese relief, planning chapter activities, general supervision of chapter work, handling of miscellaneous matters and looking after legal matters pertaining to various cases.

There are still one or two matters that should be mentioned in this report. First, let me state that our Japanese relief fund was highly successful. Nearly $15,000 was secured by our special committee and forwarded to headquarters, and in addition many churches and organizations took special collections and sent them direct, so the total amount raised in the county would come close to $20,000. The chairman of the special committee, G. S. Harsh, handled the campaign in most excellent shape and is deserving of the appreciation and thanks of our board for having put the drive over.

Our chapter was called to play some part in the coal strike of last winter but maintained a position of strict neutrality. However, considerable time and effort was devoted to the personnel of our organization to the making of investigations and doing what we could as a neutral organization.

The investigations made by us were requested by the State Department of Public Welfare and our own national organization. We found that Dr. Altman, county representative of the State Department of Health, Mr. Miller, sanitary engineer, and two nurses kept the eviction camps, during the strike in splendid sanitary condition. This is rather remarkable and much credit is due the persons named that no epidemic broke out.

We are just completing what we have every reason to believe will be a most successful Roll Call. Reports at hand would indicate it will exceed last year and the year before. The principal credit for its success goes to our splendid Roll Call chairman, Howard H. King. He answered the call to service and has given fully of his time and energy towards putting the Roll Call over. The Fayette County Chapter is and should feel greatly indebted to him. There are many other matters that should be covered in this report but I have tried to be brief and the board will have to accept as a true statement that I have only touched the high places, and that many real and worth-while services rendered by us during the past year are not mentioned. We, who are actively engaged in Red Cross work, appreciate the fine services and assistance rendered by our officers, directors and volunteers. We believe that each day the Red Cross is becoming more firmly established in our county and looked upon as an absolute necessity. Through our women volunteers, 150 Christmas kits were made recently for men in the foreign service of our country, which is just an example of many worth-while services performed during the year that I have neglected to mention.

Greensburg Now Trying To Discredit Touchdown Made by Connellsville

Claim Score Was Illegal; Local Officials Ruled Play Complicated With Rules.

POOR TIME TO PROTEST

The Greensburg Review takes occasion to ridicule Connellsville football officials in an article carried Wednesday and does it in a tone decidedly prejudicial. According to the Greensburg article, one not familiar with the circumstances would be led to believe the Connellsville players were a lot of "dumbbells." However, it happens to be the writer of the article and not the official who displays a great lack of knowledge of what occurred. The item was prompted by the belief that the touchdown secured by Connellsville was illegal. The ball was forward passed by Treadwell and after being knocked around dropped into the arms of Treadwell who fell over the goal line for a score. The ball had first struck Stillwagon's hand and according to the rules, no one else in the Coker line-up was eligible to receive the pass then until the ball had been touched by an opposing player. Referee Herwick ruled in favor of both Umpire Westcott and Headlinesman Shaffer if a Greensburg player had touched the ball and both ruled one had that made the play legal. At that time a Greensburg newspaper man on the sidelines also expressed belief that the effort of the Greensburgers who struck the ball had been more successful in breaking up the pass. Then after the team went home and there was time to think over the happenings of the day, some one dug up the idea that the play was illegal. The Review remarks that had a "competent official" been handling the game the mistake would have been avoided. It was a poor time then to protest. Not a word was said on the field.

For the past 23 years O. R. Herwick has been officiating as referee in football games in Connellsville. He has worked more games possibly than any Greensburg newspaper man ever saw and knows the rule book from foreword to conclusion. In the time he has been handling games here he has acquired the reputation of being one of the wisest officials that ever blew a whistle, often to the detriment of the home team. Umpire Westcott has been in the business almost as long and Headlinesman Shaffer, a former football coach at Dunbar Township High School has been handling his job on the lines for half a dozen years.

It is considered rather unfortunate that a sporting writer, always considered as being for what is fair and square, should attack the competency of such men.

Greensburg seems to have fallen into the distrustful attitude of some other big schools lacking powerful teams this season. Unable to be certain of their prowess through sheer strength, two of these schools have brought an official with them to Connellsville. In neither instance would the Cokers permit the man to officiate, never having demanded like favors when away from home.

CHURCH NEWS

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE—Dunk-Faith Building Church and Sunday school at 10:45, subject of Jesus sermon, "Ancient and Modern Neoromancy, Atlas Memoriam and Hypnotism Devoiced." Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock.

SUMMIT METHODIST PROTESTANT—J. H. Lamberton, supply pastor, Sunday school 2 P. M., Senior C. E. prayer-meeting at 7:30 P. M.; regular Thursday evening prayer and praise service at 7:30 o'clock. The pastor will preside. Ladies' Aid Society will meet on Thursday afternoon at the church.

Greensburg had Cramer along last Saturday but he remained on the sidelines. Johnstons was the other school desirous of "finishing in" a "home" official. Such instances always cause trouble as the extra man is only there to find things in favor of his team.

Preps Play Uniontown Here Today

The only football game in Fayette county today is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Fayette Field when the South Side Preps of this city meet the Uniontown Schoolastics. A preliminary game will begin at 1 o'clock.

The clash today is featured as the "home-coming" game of the Preps and invitations have been sent to all the former members of the "gang" in years gone by to attend and lend their moral support to the youngsters. It is the second game of the season for the Preps and their showing in the initial clash, against a much stronger opponent, won much admiration for the lads.

Today the Preps will meet a team equal to them in size and weight and a good contest is looked for. The locals will use no "rings" although many lads formerly members of the old outfit are anxious to get into the line-up. The original Prep squad only will be drawn upon.

Brownsville May Now Have To Play Here

There is a possibility that after all the Connellsville Tornados and Brownsville Independents will meet for the championship of Fayette county. Just when all hope had been abandoned by random, the management of the Coker organization, declaring its team was not "afraid" of Billy Long's contingent, offered to meet the terms laid down by the river town manager and play him next Saturday.

Now that the Brownsville terms have been met there is no reason why the Brownsville team should hustle over here for the game. There is no loophole left through which Long can slip out of having a game unless he wants to be laughed at as afraid of the Cokers.

The contracts have not been signed but Manager Funtello is ready to post his forfeit and the only thing necessary is to arrange a meeting with Long to get this over with.

If the game is played next Saturday afternoon at Fayette Field it will be the biggest football event ever staged in the history of the city and the greatest crowd that ever attended a sporting event in Fayette county will be present.

Dislike Old Nickname—Washington university of St. Louis dislikes the nickname "Pikes" gained in World's fair days back in 1904.

Now, the institution refuses to accept the old moniker and wants to be known as Bears. As Osmar mountain bear has been secured as a mascot and will be on the sidelines at the big games this fall.
